

News from the Helotes Heritage Association

Dear Readers,

The City of Helotes Comprehensive Planning Committee is conducting a Community Vision Survey to help the City understand the views of their citizens. This survey is part of the process to gain community input on planning for the future of Helotes. The input process also includes stakeholder meetings, Web-based communications, and community outreach efforts, among other strategies, in an effort to make the City's new comprehensive master plan inclusive and citizen-driven. The City hopes to build innovative partnerships between the public and private sectors in Helotes in an effort to forge long-term alliances between our citizens and their local government.

The Community Vision Survey can be accessed on the City's website (www.helotes-tx.gov). The deadline for participation is August 15, 2007. The results of this survey will shape the new Comprehensive Plan so its results are pretty important. If you don't have access to the internet you should contact City Hall (695-8877) to get a copy of the survey and instructions on how to fill it out.

Sincerely,
Ron Green
HHA President
