

News from the Helotes Heritage Association

Dear Readers,

The City of Helotes celebrated the groundbreaking of the Parrigin Playground this afternoon. The Parrigin Playground will be the first playground and park in the City of Helotes. Funding for the playground will be provided by cash and in-kind contributions and grants. The Playground is planned to be a day park to be consistent with the wishes of the local residents. Final playground design will be determined after completion of discussions with neighborhood residents.

Following are pictures of the playground site, unveiling of the playground sign, and the official groundbreaking by the Helotes City Council (photos courtesy of Gregg Eckhardt). The Helotes Heritage Association congratulates the Helotes City Council for the vision and perseverance to bring parks and playgrounds to our community.

A view of the future site of the Parrigin Playground.

Unveiling of the Parrigin Playground Sign. Mayor Allan is at the right and Parks and Open Spaces Committee Chair Ron Green is at the left. Future playground clients fill the picture.

Helotes City Council members performing the ceremonial official groundbreaking of the first park in the City of Helotes. From the left are JB Richeson, Linda Boyer-Owens, Guillerma Contreras, Mayor Jon Allan, and Alina Matutes-Eckhardt.

This is a proud day for Helotes.

Sincerely,
Ron Green
HHA, President